George Young, 17, Kicks Out Cramps, Swims Channel To Take $25,000 Wrigley Prize

CANADIAN YOUTH ONLY ENTRY TO COMPLETE RACE

Norman Ross of Chicago Gives Up Within Mile of His Goal

Los Angeles, Jan. 17—George Young of Toronto, Canada, was taking things easy today—and well he might, for this 17-year-old Canadian youth has made swimming history.

He was the only entry to finish the gruelling aquatic grind from Avalon, Catalina Island, to the mainland near Point Vincente, a distance of 22 miles.

More than 100 swimmers started, covered with grease, begoggled, determination in their hearts, these sturdy men and women plunged into the chilly waters of the Pacific shortly after 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

One by one they dropped out, some exhausted, some stricken by cramps, some just plainly discouraged and some seasick.

But George Young was not one of these. Twice he was cramp stricken, but, as he put it, "I rolled over on my back and kicked 'em out."

Kicks 'Em Out

The second time he "kicked 'em out" he "kicked 'em out" for good. After that he never faltered, keeping up his powerful stroke until he was a short distance from the shore. There, when he ran into kelp beds after being in the water for more than 15 hours, he was forced to put on added power. He had it in reserve. He cleaved his way through the kelp and a few moments later was on shore. He made the swim in 15 hours, 48 minutes and 35 seconds.

For this stupendous feat, the Toronto boy will get the $25,000 offered by William Wrigley, Chicago chewing gum magnate who promoted the swim. Which is a pretty fair fortune for a young man who landed in Long Beach about two weeks ago with 60 cents in his pockets.

Young, although youthful in years, is certainly a man in size and strength. He weighs 186 pounds and is extremely muscular. He was a veritable "dark horse" in these parts, but in Canada

BOMB EXPLODED TODAY NEAR CONSUL'S OFFICE

Headquarters of Italian Representative in New York But Slightly Damaged

New York, Jan. 17—A bomb was exploded early today near the front door of the Italian Consul General's office at 20 E. Twenty-second-st. The door was wrecked but no one was injured.

Police reserves were rushed to the scene. When they got there they could find no trace of the person or persons who placed the bomb on the stoop.

The building housing the Consul General's office is a three-story and basement brownstone affair.

Property damage was slight. There was no damage beyond the wrecking of the door and the blowing away of the scroll work inside which was used as a protection.

Frank Munito, the caretaker, his wife, four children and father, were the only ones in the house. They were on an upper floor and were jarred from bed but not injured.

Next door to the damaged building is the headquarters of the joint board of the Furriers' Union. No damage was done there, however.

SPURRED ON BY LOVE OF MOTHER

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 17—"My Goodness, isn't it lovely," today declared Mrs. Jane Young, widowed mother of 17-year-old George Young, who paddled his way to victory and a $25,000 prize in the Catalina Channel swim in California, spurred on by his desire to end the hardship of his parent.

It was for this love of his mother that youthful George risked his amateur standing to invest his scanty funds in a motorcycle to carry him from Canada to California for a try at a small fortune.

SENATE IS GIVEN POWER TO VIEW BANK RECORDS

Supreme Court Decision Is Against Brother of Former Attorney General

Washington, Jan. 17—The power of the senate to subpoena records and witnesses in official investigations was upheld by the Supreme Court today in a decision of far-reaching importance, which involved the constitutional powers of the legislative branch of the government.

The decision was rendered in the case of Mal S. Daugherty, brother of Former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, and is an outgrowth of the senate's famous investigation into the Department of Justice while the latter Daugherty was its head.

Mal S. Daugherty, head of a bank at Washington C. H., O., refused to give the senatorial investigators access to records of the bank, and also refused to answer questions put to him by the investigators, and in the court test that followed challenged the constitutional powers of the senate to compel him to do so.

In the lower Federal Courts, Daugherty was partially successful. Judge Cochran decided that the power of the senate to subpoena records and witnesses was confined to those cases wherein the senate was investigating "official acts" or wherein it was investigating with a view to legislation. In the case of Mal S. Daugherty and the Midland National Bank, the lower court denied that the senate was either investigating the official acts of the attorney general, or investigating with a view to legislation.

FIGHT BETWEEN MELLON AND COUZENS BROUGHT OUT

Detroit, Jan. 17—The fight between United States Senator James Couzens and Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, was brought directly into the hearing of the government's suit to recover $34,000,000 from former Ford Motor Co. stockholders today.

Two secret memorandums were introduced, purporting to show the basis for the government's action in changing the 1913 valuation of shares of Ford stock from $8,480 to about $3,000, thus increasing the amount of income tax.

NEW FACTORY SCHEDULED TO OPEN THIS WEEK

Arrangements To Be Completed for Opening Another Industry Here May 15

Two important industrial events are scheduled to take place in Marion this week, one the opening of a new factory and the other completion of arrangements for starting a second plant in operation on May 15.

The two industries, brought to Marion as the result of negotiations conducted by the local Chamber of Commerce, are the Gardner Tap & Die Co., of Cleveland and the Wilson Bohannon Co. of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The plant and office of the Gardner Co. were closed in Cleveland, Saturday, and operations will start here this week. The factory will be located in the Lincolnway building formerly occupied by the Studebaker Wulff Rubber Co. where machinery of the new concern is already installed and practically ready for use.

John M. Gardner, president of the company and C. M. Jackson, secretary and treasurer, arrived from Cleveland today to complete final arrangements for starting the factory here.

The new Gardner factory will be modern in every detail and is thoroughly equipped with the latest type of machinery. The company expended about $15,000 for new equipment in addition to moving the old machinery from Cleveland.

Definite Step

A definite step preliminary to opening the Wilson Bohannon Co. plant here will be taken Thursday morning when the board of directors will meet at the Chamber of Commerce rooms to formally approve plans for the factory building. These plans will be submitted to contractors at once in preparation for bids on the construction work.

The Bohannon Co., which manufactures locks, will operate in a factory to be located in the southwest section of the city along the Hocking Valley tracks.

Both the Gardner and Bohannon Cos. are well-established concerns marketing products which have a nation market, according to the Chamber of Commerce. Each plant will employ approximately 60 workmen at the start with prospects of increase later.

DRIVE FOR NEW MEMBERS AND FUND IS OPENED

Organization Seeks $3,000 To Finance Industrial Development Program

WORK ENDS SATURDAY

Corps of Solicitors Organized Into 15 Groups Begin Canvass of City

A campaign to increase the membership of the Marion Chamber of Commerce to 600 or more and to raise an industrial development fund of $3,000 in order that the organization may be in position to carry out the extensive program of community service it has planned for the future was launched this morning under the leadership of 15 group chairmen representing various lines of business and industry.

With a record of unusual achievements made by the Chamber during the last year as an argument to enlist the support of citizens generally, the corps of solicitors took up their work with every indication that the campaign will meet with success.

Closes Saturday

The drive will come to a close Saturday night and by that time it is expected that each of the 15 groups will have completed its membership quota and raised its share of the industrial development fund. Each group is expected to obtain at least 40 members during the week.

The 15 groups and their chairmen are as follows: H. B. Walker, general manufacturing; C. B. King, steam shovel manufacturers; H. B. Hane, financial; George H. Whysall, public utilities; C. A. Daly, public service companies; Karl Schell, real estate; W. J. Gorton, building material and supplies; R. D. Moore, professional; A. W. Kette, professional; M. L. McDaniels, automobiles; George E. Frank, department stores; Morgan E. Burke, food products; Wilfred Schaffner, home furnishings; Samuel Rosenberg, general retail; C. E. Merkel, miscellaneous.

Plans for the campaign were completed on Jan. 10 at a meeting of the chamber's board of directors, when it was decided that a larger membership is necessary in order to make it possible for the organization to accomplish a full measure of service for the city.

Two-Year Program

The board at that time mapped out a two-year program for 1927 and 1928 which is intended to bring about industrial and business expansion here but

DETROIT IS LOOKING FOR MUCH COLDER WEATHER

Detroit, Jan. 17—Relief experienced today from the cold wave, which took two lives over the week-end in Detroit, will be short-lived, for "much colder" weather tomorrow is predicted.

From four degrees below zero early Sunday morning, the lowest yet this year, the temperature gradually rose until it reached 22 above at 7 a. m. today.

Lucky! Seven Mothers

Little Verba Margaret Cook Quite Fortunate; Six of Her Maters Change Every Six Months at South Dakota State College

Verba Margaret Cook

BROOKINGS, S. D., Jan. 17—Was there ever another baby so fortunate as Verba Margaret Cook of Brookings? Verba doesn't believe there has been, or is. Why? Because she has seven mothers and strange fact—she changes six of them every six months.

It all occurred in this manner: Verba's very own mother was employed and often wondered just what to do with Verba while out working in order to support the baby and herself. Coeds in the "practice cottage" at South Dakota State College here often wished that they had a baby with which they could practice "mothering."

Mrs. Cook was interviewed and consented to lend Verba to the coeds, and so the child took up her residence at the "practice cottage" and began to engross the attentions and affections of six coeds.

Every six months the coeds residing in the "practice cottage" give up their home there in order that six more coeds may enter to get instruction and actual experience in conducting a home, including the care of a baby.

A schedule has been laid out for the coeds so that each girl gets a turn at everything. For a period she is manager of the cottage, plans the meals, does the buying, and oversees the others.

Each girl also has a period at taking care of Verba, preparing her meals and tending to all the other duties of a real mother. It is noticeable that each of the girls is reluctant to give up her work of caring for Verba.

Verba has flaxen hair, hazel eyes, a fair complexion, and an extraordinarily good disposition. Her co-ed "mothers" have taught her many tricks which most babies of Verba's age—nine months—are not taught so soon in life, and Verba is a willing performer at all times.

South Dakota State College is one of very few in the United States which has a bonafide "practice" cottage for girls in home economics classes, and it is one of still fewer which actually "borrow" babies for the co-eds to practice mothering on.

R. L. GOETTING DRIVES NEGROES FROM GROCERY

In Hospital With Wounds In Side and Arm; Assailants Escape

THREE SUSPECTS HELD

Grocer Drops Behind Counter And Opens Fire After Being Hit

A pair of negro bandits attempted to hold up R. L. Goetting, 61, at his grocery, 553 Lee-st, about 8 o'clock Saturday night and were routed after a gun battle in which Mr. Goetting was wounded twice and a bullet from his revolver is believed to have struck one of the negroes.

Mr. Goetting is now at the City Hospital with a flesh wound in the right side of his body and another in his right arm above the elbow. Reports from the hospital today stated that he is resting comfortably and that he will recover.

The shooting affray was witnessed by Mrs. Goetting and her seven-year-old grandson, Paul Barrett of Mansfield, who has been visiting at the Goetting home. Mrs. Goetting suffered a severe nervous shock as a result of the experience and is now under the care of a physician at the home of her sister, Mrs. H. H. Blazer, 575 Silver-st. Although bedfast today, her condition is not regarded as serious, relatives state.

Seated in Store

Mr. and Mrs. Goetting and their grandson were seated in the rear of the store when the two negroes, described as about 30 years of age and roughly dressed, entered under the pretense of purchasing a quantity of groceries, including several glasses of preserves, a few pounds of flour and a dozen oranges.

Mr. Goetting said that his suspicions were immediately aroused and that he was prepared for trouble while getting the articles called for by the negroes.

The jelly and flour were placed on a counter and Mr. Goetting had walked to the front of the store to get the oranges when one of the men suddenly drew a revolver with the demand, "Give me your money."

Bandit Fires

The bandit fired as he made his demand, the shot striking Mr. Goetting in the right side of his body. The bullet struck a rib and its course was deflected so that only a flesh wound resulted.

The grocer instantly took refuge behind the counter and brought into action a 32-caliber revolver which he carried as a safeguard following a series of hold-ups and robberies at local homes and business places during the last few months.

Negro Flees

The negro who fired the first shot had fled, leaving is accomplice standing directly in front of the counter that served as a barricade for Mr. Goetting. The grocer set his gun in action, firing one shot which he is certain struck the bandit.

The negro returned fire with a bullet which struck Mr. Goetting's right arm, forcing him to give up the fight. His assailant then escaped, following his accomplice over a course that is supposed to have taken them to the Harding Highway and west through the Erie yards.

A hundred or more persons living in the neighborhood armed with clubs and guns and headed by Sheriff Deal and city police, combed the West Side throughout most of Saturday night and early Sunday morning but were unable to find any trace of the bandit pair.

Three negro suspects, one of whom is said to answer closely to the description of one of the bandits, were taken into custody in the Erie yards at noon, Sunday, by Sheriff Deal. This man is registered at the County Jail as William Miles, 22, of Jackson, Miss. He wore a leather coat, similar to a coat worn by one of the bandits, the sheriff states. This article of apparel is the only definite mark of identification furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Goetting.

The other two suspects are William Robison, 28, of Ft. Worth, Tex., and Archie King, 30, of Baton Rouge, La.

Plead Innocence

All of the trio, held at the jail for investigation, assert their innocence.

It is believed that after leaving the Goetting store, the bandits fled through the Woodlawn addition, west of Lee-st, and then to the Harding Highway, although this is little more than a supposition.

Revolvers used by both the bandits and Mr. Goetting were of the 32-caliber type. Both bullets which struck the grocer were found, the one which passed through his arm being picked up on the floor of the store and the other having lodged in his underclothing.

The bullet fired by Mr. Goetting was not found and this adds strength to the grocer's theory that it lodged in the bandit's body.

Mr. Goetting was taken to the City Hospital in the C. E. Curtis & Co. ambulance.

School Banking, Christmas Savings Plans Emphasized On Local Thrift Week Bill

Support Given Two Systems Indicates Practice of Thrift in City; Schools To Observe Week with Special Programs; Deposits Growing

Thrift Week, the national observance of which begins today, directs the attention of Marion citizens to two major thrift programs in the city.

The system of school banking, now in effect in the public schools of the city for nearly a year, is one of the strongest indications of the practice of thrift in the city, school and bank officials say.

In the time that has elapsed since the school bank system was started, nearly $25,000 has been deposited by school children. Withdrawals total approximately $1,000, bringing the total deposits of school children to $24,228 at this time.

The second indication of the practice of thrift among Marion citizens is the large number of Christmas savings accounts opened again this year in all Marion banks carrying these accounts.

Before Christmas last year more than $125,000 was distributed in this city to holders of Christmas savings bank books, and the amount to be distributed next Christmas will exceed this, from present indications. All banks with Christmas savings clubs report slight increases over last year in the number of accounts opened on this plan.

It is in the schools, however, that the most attention will be paid during Thrift Week. School bank total deposits, not counting withdrawals made so far, will exceed the $25,000 mark this week. The number of withdrawals has been low, considering the number of children using the plan. On some weeks as high as 70 per cent of the children in the schools have made deposits. The school bank system was started in Marion schools on April 8, 1926, after several years of studying the plan by school officials.

The first school bank deposit was $697.92. From this start the growth has been steady, until today the actual amount on deposit to the credit of Marion school children is $24,228. The deposits are made each week on Tuesday in the grade schools and on Wednesday in the Harding High School. Teachers take in the money, credit the children on their pass books, and place a credit slip and the money in the bag

Theatrical Man Wins Point in Fight to Escape Prison

New York, Jan. 17—Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, won a point today in his fight to escape a prison sentence for perjury, intent out to him as the result of allegedly false testimony submitted by him during the grand jury investigation into his famous "wine bath" party.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which recently upheld his conviction, today granted him a stay of 30 days, pending a decision of the United States Supreme Court on the merits of an appeal to that body.

Carroll is facing a sentence of a year and a day and a fine of $2,000.

Catalina Channel Swim Victor Tells Of Ever Uncertain Trip To California

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17—Let George tell it.

George is the young man from Toronto, Canada, who was born away back in the year 1909 and who is richer today by some $25,000 for having negotiated 22 miles through the chilly waters of the Pacific Ocean, from Avalon, Catalina Island, to the mainland, to win the epic swim sponsored by William Wrigley.

George—George Young—Is the youth who made his way to California on a battered motorcycle with his chum Bill Hastings, to win the swimming classic from a field of the world's best swimmers.

All in all, George Young is quite a young man, and as such, worthy of being heard.

"I just knew I'd do it," the lad confessed modestly. "I've been swimming since I was 3 years old up at my home in Toronto and I've been swimming all my life in cold water in Lake Ontario and other lakes up around home and Montreal. I guess it's the clean life I've lived and the constant thought of my mother that kept pushing me on.

"Bill Hastings, my chum, first heard about the channel swim last summer," Young continued. "He told me he thought I could make it and we decided to come to California and try it.

"I'd been doing quite a bit of swimming in cold water up in Canada—swam 22 miles once—but I'd never done any competitive swimming.

"Well, Bill and I got an old motorcycle to make the trip. We had no money, but we managed to get some. Bill's mother financed us with $70 and my mother gave us $80—all the money she had. My mother's a widow, you know, but she had faith in me and knew it was a paying investment.

"I also sold everything of my own that I could in order to increase our capital.

"Hard luck rode with us on that one-lunged motorcycle. We were broke when we reached Chicago. We had bought the motorcycle with most of the money.

"Broke in Chicago, we didn't know what to do. We decided to board the lion in his own den. We went straight to Mr. Wrigley.

"We told Mr. Wrigley we were headed for California to try to win his money.

"'You look lik a couple of clean-cut lads,' Mr. Mr. Wrigley told us, and he loaned us $90.

"From Chicago we went to Oklahoma. There we lost the motorcycle. We were flat on our feet, so we started to hoof it. From Oklahoma we walked all the way to California except for a couple of rides we picked up.

"Bill and I arrived in Los Angeles on Dec. 3. We had less than 60 cents between us.

"I remembered Doc O'Byrne who had lived in Toronto and who had come to Los Angeles. I remembered he had made swimming champions out of two of his girls.

"So we looked up Doc O'Byrne. He took me in hand and trained me. It was Doc who taught me how to do it."

JAY H. MAISH CO. HOLDS ITS ANNUAL MEETING

Favorable Reports of Business During 1926 Made; Future Prospects Good, Claim

Favorable reports of business during the last year and of prospects for increased operations during 1927 were received by stockholders of the Jay H. Maish Co., local advertising and printing concern, at its office, 309 S. Main-st, Friday night. The company now has contracts for handling the advertising accounts of several large local corporations, as well as some in other cities, the reports showed.

A national market has been developed for the company's special product, "Gospel Hill" letterheads and will be expanded during the coming year, according to present plans.

PACIFISTS ACTIVE

U. S. U. Selected for Center of Campaign Says McNutt

Columbus, Jan. 17—Ohio State University has been selected by a pacifist group as the institution in which to launch a nationwide attempt to abolish military training in schools, according to declarations made by Paul V. McNutt, commander of the Indiana Department of the American Legion, in an address to legion leaders at a conference here Sunday.

McNutt said two groups—one of genuine pacifists who literally hate war and would end it by outlawing all military activities, and the other "reds" who hope to weaken the nation for a futile attempt at revelation by the "masses"—are actively attempting to block an adequate preparedness program in the United States.

"The time has come when the American Legion must speak from practical experience and demand that this country give hearty support to the national defense act of 1920," said McNutt.

Middletown Post was awarded a loving cup or sending the largest delegation to the conference of legionnaires.

Behind the Screen

BY their mannerisms ye shall know them.

Film fans will no doubt be interested to knowing that those whose associates with the stars do not have to look at their faces to identify them. For stars change their faces, but their little idiosyncrasies remain with them all the time.

A detective will tell you that every person in the world has some personal mannerism, and screen stars are no exception. It is not difficult to single out Roy D'Arcy, arch-villain of the movies in a mob. He has a habit of tapping his left index finger against his left whenever he is thinking.

John Gilbert invariably flicks the ashes from his cigaret with his little finger.

Lillian Gish forever is secreting a tiny handkerchief in the palm of her hand, and Norma Shearer seems to be staring into space and thinking of something pleasant whenever she is idle between scenes.

See how many mannerisms of your favorite stars you can detect next time you go to the movies.

Fred Niblo, director of "Ben Hur," is the latest director to cast his lot with United Artists. He will return to Metro for one feature picture each year for three years.

"Night of Love," is the third picture in which Vilma Banky and Ronald Colman have been co-featured. It is a romantic tale of love in a feudal Spain, with Ronald Colman as a bandit bold and Vilma as the princess pretty.

Francis X. Bushman bemoans the passing of the versatile actor. Back in the good old days, he points out, in one picture a player was sometimes a

18 FAMILIES DRIVEN TO STREETS BY FLAT FIRE

Cincinnati, Jan. 17—An investigation was underway here today into the cause of the $200,000 fire that swept the Alaise Apartment Building in the fashionable Hyde Park section here yesterday and drove 18 families out into near-zero weather.

Fire Chief B. J. Houston today was recovering from injuries received during the fire, and several other firemen were nursing minor hurts.

Eight stores occupying the ground floor of the building suffered considerable damage.

About 20 persons, hemmed in by smoke and flames, were carried down extension ladders to safety.

Longworth's Cruiser Stand May Be Bid for Presidency

Speech for Navy Starts Everyone Talking in Washington

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—Nick Longworth burned his boats when he joined the "big navy" against President Coolidge a few days ago. For better or for worse he's now a Republican candidate for president himself.

For a long time Republican agitators have been squirming for a chance to announce themselves as such.

They all want to be posting their proclamation campaigns but none has the nerve to say a word for himself with President Coolidge as he is everybody knows, still in a receptive frame of mind toward another term.

It remained for speaker Longworth to hit on a plan for turning the presidential spotlight on himself without actually proclaiming his candidacy in plain terms. Or perhaps Mrs. Longworth, whom everybody considers about the shrewdest politician in Washington, hit on the plot.

Or perhaps it wasn't a plan at all, but the speaker lined up with the "big navyites" against the president simply because he's a "big navy" man.

AT any rate, the position Nick took started everybody talking about him as a presidential possibility. Mighty few can be found who don't think he deliberately counted on this effect.

When the "big navyites" demanded money for three new cruisers and the president said they couldn't have it with his consent it became evident that any Republican who voted in opposition to the chief executive's wishes was going to make himself notorious, provided he was of sufficient political importance to be noticed under any circumstances.

Of course the speaker of the house of representatives is of sufficient importance to attract attention, especially when he does anything unusual.

IT'S decidedly unusual for a speaker of the lower house of congress to vote counter to the expressed policy of a president of his own party.

In this instance it was interpreted as an indication of Speaker Longworth's disagreement with the president, not only as to the three disputed cruisers, but also as to the president's whole economy program, for cruisers and the navy and that's just why the president objects to them except on the merits from.

But the speaker didn't stop at voting against the president. He turned over his gavel to a substitute and made a pro-cruiser speech. This was rubbing it in.

• • •

IF the "big navy" folk had won it would have been a great feather in Nick's cap.

The feather doesn't show to quite so much advantage in view of the fact that they lost. Still they lost by so narrow a margin that it's something of a feather anyway, though not quite of the first class.

The essential point is that the whole country has been saying ever since, "That obviously was Nick's bid for the Republican presidential nomination in 1928." That he has broadcast an announcement without actually announcing a thing.

• • •

IT remains to be seen whether Nick's strategy will profit him or not.

He succeeded in doing what none of his rivals for President Coolidge's place in the White House has accomplished.

Still, the president can't [illegible] well and presidents have [illegible] ting even for what they [illegible] mitted. He has asked, [illegible] the presidency and must [illegible] consequences, whatever they [illegible] to be.

Mexican Land Laws Are Clarified in Penetrating Analysis of Their Origin

Correspondent Tells of System of Land Tenure from Spanish Conquest to 1874 and Then to Present; Calles Seeking Return

By CHARLES P. STEWART

[illegible] Kellogg has made [illegible] and over again. How [illegible] the question hinges on Mexican land laws. If [illegible] communistic, then the government [illegible] enforce them. If the [illegible] communistic, then the government is not, for its land laws are the only thing about Mexico that, by any stretch of the imagination, can be interpreted as savoring of communism.

Mexico's system of land tenure, from before the Spanish conquest up to 1874, undoubtedly was communistic, in a way.

That is to say, the farm land was held by the state.

Example Is Quoted

When a young Indian married and wanted to set up an establishment of his own, he applied to the authorities of his village or town for an allotment of land. He always got it, for the country was not sufficiently crowded not to afford room for everybody.

There was a choice of land, of course. The young couple was at liberty to take the best it could find, provided it was unoccupied. It was also welcome to as much as was available, upon one condition—

It must all be cultivated by the family to which it was granted.

As soon as a landholder permitted any part of his farm to go uncultivated, that part was automatically open to occupancy by another applicant.

If a farmer could only make half a dozen acres productive, that was all he could keep. If he could make 1,000 acres productive, it was his so long as he kept it productive.

Ideal for Agriculturists

The average holding was of about 15 acres. That was about all one head of a family could farm unaided. He was under no temptation to take more, since he would be sure to lose it.

This system was ideal for the agricultural masses.

It was unsatisfactory, however, to capitalists who saw an opportunity to enrich themselves still further by the acquisition of vast acreages in fee simple.

Accordingly, in 1874, a law was passed requiring all farm holders to register these holdings within a specified period under penalty of eviction, and setting up a new system by which the land might be reacquired, as soon as vacant, in unlimited area.

The Mexican peasantry was almost wholly illiterate. Notices of the new land requirements were perhaps posted conspicuously enough, but practically none of the small farmers could read them. Few were aware of the necessity to register. Few, consequently, did so, and promptly upon expiration of the stated period almost the entire agricultural population of the country found itself landless.

The forfeited farms immediately passed into the hands of great lords of the land, who former independent cultivators were transformed, at a stroke, from free farmers to peons, hardly removed from a state of actual slavery.

Difference of View

Under present laws the Calles government is attempting to restore the old system. It is this attempt which Secretary Kellogg denounces as confiscatory and communistic. The Calles contention is that it seeks only to restore stolen property to its original owners.

The dispute over the petroleum land laws is slightly different in form.

The Spanish conquerors established the principle that all minerals vested in the crown. The same rule was carried over into the days of Mexico's independence. Even holders of land were not entitled to mineral deposits beneath its surface except upon the government's terms.

The terms were not and are not onerous; are, in fact, milder than those governing mineral claims in the United States. They always, however, have prevented the outright acquisition in perpetuity of Mexican mineral deposits. The system was one of leasing and rejected claims were and are open to relocation.

Under the Diaz regime an exception was made as to oil and coal deposits. They had not originally been thought of as valuable. As soon as they became so, the law was made to provide that they might be acquired as ordinary private properties.

Oil and Coal

In 1917 the Diaz exemption was repealed. Oil and coal were placed in the same category as other minerals. They may be developed upon conditions which are not so severe but that fresh claims are constantly filed. They are, however, available only upon a leasehold basis.

But the new law of 1917 is not retroactive. All owners who, prior to that year, secured legal titles under the then law are confirmed in them. The Calles government's sole demand on them is that they file their titles, as deeds are recorded in this country. If they are valid, they stand. If they prove defective, of course, claimants under them are in the same position as any other claimant under a defective title.

Combing Won't Rid Hair of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and it never fails to do the work.—Adv.

SIX ESCAPE UNINJURED IN COLLISION OF AUTOS

Cars Driven by Charles Merkel and Clarence Keil Figure in Highway Crash

Six persons escaped injury about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon when a Packard sedan driven by Charles Merkel, son of Charles E. Merkel, 357 Mt. Vernon-av, collided with the Ford touring car of Clarence A. Keil, Cromer-Millison-rd, at the intersection of the Prospect-pk and the Smeltzer-rd.

Osmun Morrison, son of Frank B. Morrison, Dubuk-av, and William Moore, son of Roy D. Moore, Vernon Heights-blvd, were the other occupants of the Merkel machine. Mr. Keil was accompanied by his wife and son, Leo.

Both machines were moving south when the accident occurred. Merkel's car struck the rear end of the Ford when Keil turned his car into the Smeltzer-rd as Merkel attempted to pass.

The force of the collision caused the Ford to skid into a telephone pole and small bridge abutment on the left side of the Prospect-pk. After striking the Ford the Merkel car skidded into the ditch on the right side of the Smeltzer-rd a few yards from the intersection and turned over on its side.

The Ford was badly damaged by its collision with the telephone pole and bridge abutment. The right fenders and running board of the Merkel car were demolished.

CONDITION OF CHAPLIN IS SOMEWHAT IMPROVED

Film Star To Be Confined for Several Days as Result of Nervous Breakdown

New York, Jan. 17—While the condition of Charlie Chaplin, film comedian, was somewhat improved today, following a nervous breakdown suffered Saturday, he will be confined to his bed for ten or twelve days, attending physicians announced.

"He is highly unstrung. His mental and physical condition are both affected by his breakdown," declared Dr. Gustav Tieck. The physician said the breakdown was largely brought on by domestic strain resulting from the divorce suit brought against Chaplin by his wife, Lita Grey, in Los Angeles.

Complete rest was prescribed for the film comedian. He remained in bed at the apartment of his attorney, Nathan Burkan, denied to all visitors and not permitted to answer the telephone.

Chaplin's illness however, did not interfere with his plans to fight his wife's divorce action. While the comedian rested in bed his lawyers were busy preparing his case. Burkan telephoned to Chaplin's Los Angeles attorney that the screen star would not leave New York until his presence is required in California.

STATE LEGISLATORS FACING BUSY SESSION

Senate and House To Reconvene at Columbus Tonight; Many Bills Expected

Columbus, Jan. 17—A large number of bills and resolutions are expected to be dumped into the legislative hoppers when the senate and house reconvene here at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

After devoting the past two weeks largely to preliminary arrangements, including selections standing committees, the legislators will go to work in earnest this week.

Important measures scheduled for introduction this week include a number of bills embodying recommendations of the joint legislative committee on taxation and economy. Scores of bills, it was indicated, dealing with varied phases of state governmental activity, will be introduced.

The senate rules committee, at a session Tuesday, is expected to decide whether it will recommend that the senate confirm Governor Vic Donahey's recent appointees, including members of the State Industrial Commission.

Joint sessions of the Senate and House Committees on Finances and on Taxation are contemplated with a view to speeding up legislative work. The Finance committees report out appropriation measures and the taxation committees recommend bills providing for increased taxes, or decreases in revenues.

Even if no member of your own family sees it, to the eyes of your guests and visiting friends there is in your home often what might be called "unfortunate" furniture. At least, this is true in many homes—especially in old-established homes.

And there is no reason why this should be so. You can not only buy beautiful, artistic furniture these days at an exceedingly low price, but you can turn in your "unfortunate" pieces, or suites, as part payment on the new.

Our suggestion is that you drop in at the store the first time you are close by, examine the modernly-designed and modernly-constructed furniture on our floors, and if you find what you want let us send a man to your home who will tell you just how much can be allowed for your no-longer-wanted pieces.

Russian Operatic Singer Says Radio to Aid Europe

NEW YORK, N. Y., Jan. 17—Radio will in time mean more to Europe than it has meant to America, predicts Maria Kurenko, Russian operatic soprano now in the United States.

"I do not think that radio will ever be as popular in Europe as in America," says Madame Kurenko, "unless it comes within the average European's ability to pay. But conditions are such as to present a greater opportunity for radio in Europe.

"To comprehend fully the differences in the situations, Americans must appreciate the far-reaching effect of Russian conditions in the United States would mean that millions of dollars now spent annually for newspapers, magazines and books would be diverted to other popular pastimes—theaters, music, restaurants, dancing spots, automobiles, radios and other forms of entertainment."

Mme. Kurenko is a native of Tomsk, Siberia, but at an early age emigrated with her parents to Moscow. Her musical education began at the age of twelve. Later she became a pupil of the famous Mazetti at the Moscow Conservatory, simultaneously beginning the study of law at the University of Moscow, and graduating from both institutions at virtually the same time.

Mme. Kurenko is among the latest on the Atwater Kent Sunday night program.

LAST PAYMENT IS MADE FOR TELEPHONE STOCK

Control of Company To Be Taken Over at Meeting This Week

Sale of the Marion County Telephone Co. to the United Telephone Co. of Chicago reached its final stage today when payments for the last block of stock were made at the Marion National Bank, which is acting as fiscal agent in the transaction.

The first checks to local stockholders were distributed shortly after Jan. 1 and the payments made today practically concluded the fiscal part of the deal. The Chicago concern is now in possession of all but a few scattered shares of the stock and it is stated that most of these holdings are a part of the estates of original stockholders and can not be transferred until authority has been granted through court action.

Control of the local telephone property is scheduled to be formally taken over by the Chicago corporation at the annual stockholders and directors meeting of the Marion County Co. to be held this week.

... his prowess is well known. There he is long-distance champion.

The winner of the race finished in excellent condition. Today he is resting at Santa Monica. He shows no ill effects; he is not exhausted. But it is doubtful if there is a more exuberant person on the continent.

Ross Gives Up

There were other swimmers who performed notable feats. There was Norman Ross of Chicago, a favorite to win the event, who battled to within a mile of shore; there was Peter Mayer of Cincinnati, still four and a half miles out when he was told that Young had finished, and there were those two stalwart and courageous women, Margaret Hauser of Long Beach and Martha Stenger of Portland.

These two women were taken out of the water shortly after 7 o'clock Sunday morning. They had been swimming for about 19 hours and 30 minutes. Neither finished, but each will get $2,500 from Wrigley.

Three more famous sisters of the sea, Mrs. Schramm of New York, Mrs. Lottie Schoemeil and Clarabelle Barret, also of New York, had long since given up the struggle.

Water Is Cold

The temperature of the water forced most of the men swimmers to abandon the race. Sullivan of Lowell, Mass.; Foth of Long Beach, Calif., both conquerors of the English Channel; Crossan of Paterson, N. J.; Parchell of San Francisco—they all went the same way. While they were being hauled from the water, that Young boy of Toronto was steadily forging toward the shore, stopping occasionally "to kick 'em out."

Although no woman finished, leaving the $15,000 prize unclaimed, it became known here today that Wrigley was planning another Catalina swim—this time for women only. Details have not yet been worked out, but it is thought it will be held in September, that a purse of $25,000 will be offered to the participants and that such famous swimmers as Gertrude Ederle and Mrs. Mille Corson will be invited to be contestants.

GETS PERMIT

Building permits were issued from the office of the City Clerk today to William Kehrwecker for construction of a garage at 708 Congress st at an estimated cost of $40 and to Mrs. Bertha Knofler of 215 S. Main st for a $75 garage to be located at 217 Pleasant st.

GALION MAN RENAMED HARDING HIGHWAY HEAD

W. H. Holversott, Marion, Re-elected Secretary and Treasurer of National Body

A communication informing him of his re-election as secretary and treasurer of the Harding Highway Association and outlining plans for improvement work along the route of the highway during 1927 was received today by William H. Holverstott of this city.

Carl J. Gugler, Galion attorney, was re-elected president, the communication stated.

The highway route is to be extended from Denver to San Francisco, as the result of action taken at the annual meeting of the association, held in Chicago last week. Mr. Holverstott was unable to attend, his report being read by Mr. Gugler.

The only unimproved section of the Highway between Washington and Indianapolis is between Van Wert, O., and the Indiana-Ohio boundary and this gap will be paved during the coming year, according to plans now under way.

It was announced at the Chicago meeting that about $2,000,000 will be spent this year on the Harding Highway in Iowa and that a strenuous effort is being made to enlist the assistance of county boards in Iowa to make this the first paved transcontinental highway.

President Gugler paid tribute to the late President Harding and referred to the highway bearing his name as a channel which will bring the East and West sections of the country into closer relationship.

The chamber is now in exceptionally sound condition financially, officials announced today, having closed last year with all indebtedness paid and with an absolutely clean slate for beginning 1927. During the year, the organization was instrumental in bringing several new industries to the city and in conducting negotiations which have resulted in other important industrial and business developments.

Scope of Service

This has been possible through the aggressiveness of a comparatively limited membership. The chamber's scope of service, it is stated, would be vastly enlarged should the enrollment be increased to the total of 900 sought in the campaign now under way.

The $3,000 industrial development fund sought in connection with the campaign is to be used solely to cover the expense of a survey and other work required in bringing new factories to the city. Both large and small contributions are solicited for this fund, the chamber aiming to have as many citizens as possible assist in the financing of industrial promotion.

RICHLAND TOWNSHIP MAN ENDS LIFE BY HANGING

Frederick Haas Found Dead in Barn by Neighbor; Had Been Ill

Despondent over ill health, Frederick Haas, 51, prominent Richland Township man committed suicide by hanging himself at his farm seven and a half miles southeast of Marion, this morning, his body being discovered about noon by a neighbor.

Few details of the tragedy could be obtained this afternoon, due to lack of telephone communication in the neighborhood where Mr. Haas resided.

According to information obtained from the John Ruth home, located about a half mile from the Haas residence, Mr. Haas had been in failing health for about two months, due to hardening of the arteries. He had been able to attend to his farm work, however, and was even attending to the feeding of stock a short time before his body was discovered.

Mr. Haas had been a resident of Richland Township during the greater part of his life. He lived in the city, for a time, returning to the farm about four years ago. He had no children.

Passes Sentence on Four Men Indicted by Grand Jury, Last Week

Judge George B. Scofield this morning sentenced four men from the grand jurors. Saturday, ten indictments returned by the last grand jury. Two of the men who entered pleas of not guilty changed their minds over Saturday and were brought into court this morning pleaded guilty and were sentenced.

Stating that it was his intention to do all he could to stop the carrying of concealed weapons, Judge Scofield handed out penitentiary sentences of from one to three years to two men who pleaded guilty to the charge.

These men were Henry Bryant and Earl McMullen, both colored. Both men were picked up here on Nov. 9, on a tip to police and the shovel that they had stolen as attempted holdup. Both were found to have weapons on them and were arrested. McMullen pleaded not guilty to the charge Saturday, but changed his plea today, and drew the same sentence as Bryant.

Albert Morrow, who said his home was in Philadelphia, and that he stole a machine here because he had had no work and was hard up, drew an indeterminate sentence in the Mansfield Reformatory, on his plea of guilty.

Changes Plea

John Baker, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, and guilty to a charge of endangering other persons, changed his plea to guilty on both charges, and was given a fine of $50 and costs by Judge Scofield. Baker has been in the county jail four months now, and told the court that he had lost the machine he had. He was committed to jail until the fine is paid.

Hearing of the case of R. L. Bishop, indicted on statutory charge, was set for Jan. 26. Bishop entered a plea of not guilty and his bond of $5,000 was continued by the court.

Elzy Jessow held on two indictments of burglary and carrying concealed weapons, told the court he had been unable to get counsel and asked the court to appoint an attorney for him. First Gaffery was appointed to defend him by Judge Scofied and trial was set on the concealed weapon charge for Jan. 21.

Trial of Richard McKinney, held on a charge of shooting with intent to kill, was set for Jan. 19.

Hearing Postponed

Hearing on the vacation of the Iona Street, in Richland Township, originally set for Saturday, has been postponed for a year, pending attempts by residents of that section to work out some other plan. The County commissioners Saturday morning postponed the hearing when several of the residents of that section appeared before them.

RETURN OF COLD WAVE FORECAST FOR TUESDAY

Warmer Weather Predicted Tonight; Snow Scheduled To Accompany Wave Break

The cold wave which struck Ohio Saturday lifted slightly last night and today, will be back again Tuesday night, the advance forecast of the weatherman showed today.

The prediction given out by the weather bureau said that it will be warmer tonight, colder Tuesday, and much colder Tuesday night. This will give some relief to this section for a few hours, but the return of the cold spell will mean more suffering among the needy families, and more heavy shoveling of coal on th part of such residents as have any left in the bin.

Snow is to accompany the hitting of the cold wave for a few hours. Snow for the north portion of Ohio and rain for the southern counties is predicted. Marion will probably draw some of each. The weather forecaster did not state whether the snow would accompany the coming of colder cold wave.

The temperature rested only four degrees all day Sunday. The mercury reached a high mark of 36 degrees and a low of 32 degrees. A year ago the ... with sub zero ... and a low of 15 ...

$2,054,000 IS SPENT ON "BUSTING" OF TRUSTS

Sargent Makes Statement for House Committee; Expresses Gratification

Washington, Jan. 17—"Trust busting" has cost the government $2,854,000 in the 24 years of operation of the anti-trust laws, Attorney General Sargent declared today in a statement sent to the house appropriations committee.

The annual cost of operation against illegal business combinations has been declining. In 1926 the government collected fines amounting to $520,301 on anti-trust prosecutions, more than double the cost of prosecution.

Sargent described to congress a new policy under which the government has acted in the last year to prevent completion of illegal combinations and mergers, expressing the opinon that results justify the effort.

In order to protect trade from the formation of illegal combinations, the department has adopted the plan of calling upon companies proposing to merge with others, for statements disclosing the nature of the new organizations, according to Sargent.

Largest of Her Kind.

The story of the recent launching of the Augustus, the latest addition to Italy's transoceanic passenger fleet, has been told in both newspaper stories and pictures.

The Augustus may be taken as evidence of Italy's leaning to internal combustion engines. With a tonnage of 33,000, a length of 703 feet and a width of 82½ feet, she is the largest vessel in the world thus propelled. With her, the Saturnia and Vulcania, Italy now possesses the three largest ships of this kind afloat, and in these three with the Roma, of practically the same size as the Augustus, Italy now has a passenger fleet of which she may well be proud.

The new vessel's four screws are propelled by four groups of Diesel engines which have 38,000 horsepower, giving her a normal speed of 21¾ knots. Her public rooms occupy 22,000 square feet of space, 40,000 square feet are devoted to decks and she has accommodations for 300 first-class passengers, 500 second-class, 1,500 third and a crew of 500.

The launching of the Augusta gives another line on the remarkable change which has come over Italy. Less than eight months after the keel was laid she was christened by Signorina Edda Mussolini, daughter of the premier, and slid down the ways, a record for Italian shipyards, a record which will compare favorably with those of the yards of any land. It is expected that she will go into commission and sail on her maiden voyage within seven or eight months, which, at the outside, will mean a construction period of less than a year and a third. There can be no question but what Mussolini has revolutionized construction in Italian shipyards as he has about all else in Italy.

Railroad Travel Safer Yearly.

A year ago at about this date we knew of the awarding of the Mrs. E. H. Harriman medals for safety for 1924. Last week the medals of the same donor were awarded for the leading three safety records for 1925, the gold medal going to the Union Pacific system, the silver to the Duluth, Missabe and Northern Railway company and the bronze medal to the Green Bay and Western line.

In presenting the gold medal for class A roads, Judge Elbert H. Gary said the opportunity to save one life was a privilege that came to comparatively few men. "The safety work of the Union Pacific," he continued, "in the last four years alone has resulted definitely in saving 2,281 employes from death or most serious injury. The road's record now shows only one accidental injury to an employe for every quarter million hours of work, and it has made travel on its lines so safe that not a single passenger was killed anywhere on the system during 1925."

The Duluth, Missabe and Northern railway, the winner of the silver medal, has operated for three years without a single fatality and without the loss of an arm, foot, leg or eye to either passenger or employe.

The Green Bay and Western line won the bronze medal by going through the year 1925, without one fatality through any cause and with but two employes injured and only four persons injured in train or train service accidents.

Like the record of 1924, that of 1925 shows the wonderful strides being made to make the operation of trains safe for passengers and employes alike. That great progress has been made in this respect is manifested by comparative figures. The number of passengers killed has decreased from 369 in 1913 to 171 in 1925, and the number of passengers injured has fallen during the same period from 15,139 to 4,952. In 1913 there were 3,715 employes killed and 171,417 injured. In 1925 the record for all the roads of the country showed 1,594 employes killed and 118,874 injured.

Taken as they stand, these figures are remarkable. It is amazing that such an improvement in the matter of safety to passengers and employes could be made in twelve years. But they are far better than they appear to be. It must be remembered, to get the full force of the showing, that during the twelve-year period we had the Great war and that, while we as a nation were engaged in it, the government took over the control and management of the railroads. It did nothing during that period in which it managed the roads to better conditions so far as safety appliances and devices were concerned. Not only that, but it left the roadbeds and the rolling stock and the treasuries of the roads in such condition that they were barely able to make ends meet for three or four years thereafter, and during this aftermath of the war, few appliances and devices looking to safety were installed. They hadn't the means for making the improvements along this line for safety devices over an entire system run into money. At present the Pennsylvania is expending $8,000,000 for the installation of one safety device throughout its system. The roads are getting back upon their feet, with the result that there is more and more safeguarding of passengers and employes alike. Neither the railroads, nor any other public utility, can keep abreast with the times in the matter of improvements if it is continually harrassed and kept impoverished. If the railroads of the land are not handicapped by unduly severe legislation making a reasonable profit by them impossible, there is no reason why this great record for safety can not be further improved. As a matter of fact, under conditions fair to them, the improvement should be still more marked for each year is seeing added safeguards for the protection of those who travel by train, those who operate the trains and those who maintain them.

BUSY DAYS FOR UNCLE SAM.

Oxygen, Nature's Own Tonic.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

It is a perfectly natural thing to desire to be beautiful. Nobody can be blamed for this.

The carpet, rug or floor, whatever it is that supports the feet, will be more worn under the looking glass than anywhere else in a lady's apartment. That is perfectly all right. I have seen many a face worth some enough to warrant a lot of gazing upon. Then I have seen others which I am sure were improved a lot by the treatment given in front of the mirror.

The other day the "beauty experts" had a convention in Chicago. One speaker said: "Lack of proper exercise and fresh air are more fatal to a flapper's complexion than synthetic gin or cigarets."

Then he said a lot more which every girl should read and every woman, too, and, for that matter, every man who desires to look his best. Listen to this good sense:

"All the mechanisms of the body must be functioning properly if the complexion is to be of fine texture and delicate of color. The lazy girl who shuns outdoor exercise pays the penalty with a dingy skin that shows lack of vitality and muscular energy."

Of course she does. She shortens her life, too, because the same conditions productive of a "dingy skin" are harmful to the internal organs and every other part of the body.

"One must have good food, restful sleep, sufficient exercise and plenty of water taken into the system each day if one is to have a complexion for which one can cherish a feeling of pride," continued the speaker. "Value of fresh air can not be stressed too much. Oxygen is nature's tonic."

That is good! Oxygen is nature's tonic! Nothing could be truer. Then this sensible man continues:

As a rule the deep breather has greater mental activity than the slouchy inhaler. There is something about airing out the lungs from basement to attic that has an effect on the spirits."

Yes, and on the duration of life, too. Many a life has been shortened by "slouchy" breathing. Habitually practised. The lung capacity is never used in its entirety, but many folks use only a small portion of it.

Not only will your looks be spoiled if you do not breathe as you should, but also your general nourishment will suffer and your health will never be what it should be. Oxygen is essential for handling the food you eat and purifying your system.

It ought not to be necessary to preach so often about the fundamental things in life. Everybody should eat and sleep and exercise and drink water just as a matter of common sense. But thousands fail to do so. It is a pity.

I am friendly to every method of the beauty expert, provided it is not something to camouflage health. Rouge must not be made a substitute for natural redness of the cheeks or lips.

There must be lived the sort of life which in itself will paint high colors in the face. When good eating and good living have done this for the girls, I have no objection to any act of theirs to modify or enhance the natural color.

But all the time let's remember that "oxygen is nature's tonic!"

Vagrant Verse.

THE KING.

Do you remember anything He said,
Save He was a king
Without a kingdom or a bed
And that He once had fed
On bitter roots and dew?

There was too much heaven in His head,
When He walked among the breathing dead,
To allow His eyes to see us,
Or His burning hands to feel us
For the creatures that we were.
There was too much earth in us—
So we could not understand.

And you went about your hours
Piling hope upon the clay,
Which my weakness took away,
And I leaned against myself,
Still believing in my strength—
Until both of us at length
Ran like children to His eyes!

Save the way He took us in
To that palace of His faith?
And the way He said good-by,
Telling us across His shoulder
We were just a little late?

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

So long as the cold nerve of the human being at its best holds out we can keep on expecting some things in material improvements. An Italian lieutenant has invented a pocket-sized parachute for landing from aeroplanes. He stepped out of the machine the other day at a height of 1,000 feet and dropped smoothly and safely to earth. What poor progress we should make in the world if it were not for the people who have the courage to do things first!

To do things in the world of the mind and conscience requires courage, just as it does to do things in the material world. To think things through for oneself, to arrive at conclusions, to have the courage of one's convictions, to act on new ideas instead of abiding always by the inherited ones—all this takes nerve.

To do things first in the mind and the soul may be like jumping out of an aeroplane with a pocket-sized parachute.

A smart man from the University of Pennsylvania has devised a way by which he can turn the "squeals" in your radio set into music, by manipulation of keys he turns the squeals into a tune. Human ingenuity has sometimes shown itself at its best in the utilization of by-products. Somebody has said that a stockyard is a marvelous place because of the manufacture of by-products. Everything is turned into something practical—everything except the squeal of the pig. In the light of this new radio invention there is even hope for the pig's squeal.

And so again in the domain of the mind and the spirit, the best fun in life is a by-product. Peace, contentment, fun, joy come as by-products when we give most of our effort to the doing of useful work. The harder the work, the greater the by-product.

Judge Joseph Burke, court of domestic relations, Chicago, has had an unusual opportunity to observe the streaks and turns and windings of human nature. He has set up some commandments for men and women. Note the first:

"Don't hesitate to admit you are in the wrong. It is a matter of small importance, and the reward is great."

The Alien Menace.

(Cincinnati Enquirer.)

An interview with John V. W. Reynder, a former vice president of the Pennsylvania Steel company, published in the Iron Age, contains statements that should strengthen resistance to any modification of the immigration law. Mr. Reynder is just home from an extended trip abroad and it is his confirmed opinion that America has far more to fear from the low-grade European alien than from any dumping of cheaply produced manufactured goods in this country.

Mr. Reynder declares that the strongest impression he gained abroad was the necessity for most rigid enforcement of our immigration law. He believes, after a close observation of the Eastern European peoples, that the quotas under which they are admitted to this country are not any too low, if low enough. He unqualifiedly estimates these races as unfit timber for American citizenship.

Men change their views. Mr. Reynder says that as a steel company executive some years ago he held just the opposite view of immigration. Specifically he says: "I was then impressed with the desirability of plentiful common labor. Today, I realize that an intelligent, loyal citizenship is much more important to our national welfare. The dumping of low-grade aliens into our population materially adds to the costs of our courts and the administrative branches of our governments."

Passing from discussion of the relation of immigration to crime in America, Mr. Reynder said further: "While immigration has a definite relation to crime, it also has an important influence on our economic stability. Of late we have taken pride in the spirit of good will which has grown up between employers and employes. The real test of industrial good feeling, however, will come when this country enters a period of business depression. At such a time, which may not be remote, the quality of our citizenship will be put on trial. There is a real cause for fear that, under those conditions, the undigested elements in our population, ignorant and without traditions of loyalty to our institutions, will become the prey of unscrupulous agitators bent on radical and destructive programs."

Mr. Reynder states the case well and clearly. The immigration law must not be weakened. Already it has been too greatly strained. Short-sighted altruists, working side by side with the Bolshevists and anarchists—as bootlegger and decent temperance advocate work together—help along the tides of radicalism and revolution. There already are too many undesirable foreign strains in America, whose control and culture tax the resources of the nation. Consider Chicago and some others among our "foreign" cities!

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

Scotch stories are still strong, with a lively demand and lots of stuff offered. I want to get all my Scotch unloaded on you folks before somebody prohibits it or puts poison into the stories. So this is about a Scotchman.

He was in the wholesale woolen business and he ordered a bill of goods from a salesman. So this selling guy offered the Scot a box of cigars.

"Na, that'd be a bribe, an' I dinna ever take a bribe. I'd be ashamed to be seen at the kirk if I did."

"This ain't a bribe," says the salesman. "It's a present."

"Na, tis a bribe. I couldna take it."

"All right, but I want you to have the cigars. I'll sell you this box for a quarter."

"That's fair," says the merchant. "And, since ye are so kind, I'll take a dozen boxes at that price."—Copyright, 1927.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Jan. 17.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and glad to be at my desk again and with a swoop cleared away an accumulation of weeks, doubtless sacrificing papers I desire to keep and letters that should be answered. So in light spirits to breakfast with my mother-in-law, taking her two books.

Then to walk among the tenements of Avenue A, with Lisle Bell and in a pawnshop bartered for an odd key ring, albeit I have not carried a key in years. And a drunken man lurched against a lady with an epithet and she said, "I excuse your drunkenness but not your manners," as fine retort as ever I heard.

So home and wrote a magazine piece before dinner and with great ease, too, so fascinating me I decided to scribble late into the night but after dinner could not fashion a line. So to bed.

It was at one of those gay balls starting at midnight and ending when many fair heads leads tucked under their wings or something. In the midst of a dance a whistle blew and the orchestra stopped. Flash-light photographers raised their hands and lights flashed. At least thirty women screamed and about forty couples raced from the floor in panic. They were in the wrong place with the wrong escorts. It is tres difficile to laugh off a paragraph in a divorce court.

Something else about which to worry. These young blades who keep pace with the cuts in dinner jacket lapels, the angle of hats and the wrist flair of gloves have a lot of useless dress shirts on hand. The three stud sets were supplanted by those with one button a year ago and now the last word is two buttonholes close together.

In other days Jim Thornton was a confirmed imbiber—the old type of talented, unreliable Thespian. He would work a few weeks and daily among the bright lights. His faithful wife, Bonnie, clung to him through the turbulent years and James and Bonnie Thornton made thousands laugh. After her passing he was inconsolable and drank deeper. Then suddenly he turned from the cup, and in his advancing age is making audiences laugh with the old-time gusto.

It used to be an idea drink went with genius and stage stars often bragged of holding the curtain until their heads cleared and then giving amazing performances. It was said Nat Goodwin gave his finest presentations with a quart of chablis tucked under his belt. Beerbohm Tree was also reputed to be at his best three sheets in the wind—although this was an infrequent occurrence. Two celebrated female stars also had the reputation of indulging for their most difficult roles. Perhaps these stories are exaggerations. Anyway the first-most stars of the present day are largely teetotalers. Only one star—a woman—is an inebriate and her swan song has been sung. Every effort in the past few years has met with pathetic failure.

A musical comedy actress of promise not long ago faced a managerial ultimatum. She must take the pledge or face dismissal. She kept her run of the play contract. She had been hiccupping too much in public. She rested for a week's lay-off and went to an isolated Long Island village. She came back resolved to permanent sobriety and for four months has kept the pact. She has told friends that she consumed by the physical craving for liquor the dons walking togs and walks along strange streets until exhausted.—Copyrighted, 1927.

Twenty Years Ago.

This day was Thursday.

The Marion Olympias, made up of Mason, Kuhl, Waddell, McNeal and Sanford, made a grand total of 2,527 in the bowling tournament in Toledo.

M. Lawrence was elected president of the Citizens' Building and Loan company, the day before, so the Star stated.

The matter of granting a new franchise to the Marion City Water company was being discussed.

Lake Shore Engineer Albert Boyce, of Toledo, was killed in a freight collision at the union depot in Columbus.

There were 6,000 cases of scarlet fever in Chicago, and the epidemic was spreading.

Proprietor P. S. Lott, of Hotel Marion, was able to leave Emergency hospital after a very serious illness.

W. C. Courtad was installed as president of the Knights of St. John.

A seventh heir to the estate of the late Josephus Goodnow, a fourteen-year-old boy was found in Greece, New York.

Mrs. G. W. King and Mrs. A. E. Cheney gave a large reception at the home of the former on Mt. Vernon avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Pierson entertained a large company at their home on South Prospect street.

The inheritance tax collected on the estate of Russell Sage, of New York state, was $65,000, which at that time was considered extremely heavy. That was long before the policy of confiscating large portions of estates by law had been inaugurated.

Bishop Earl Cranston, of Washington, it was announced, would arrive in Marion within a few days to visit his half brother, W. A. Longbon.

Rev. William McK. Brackney, of Marysville, was named by Bishop William McDowell to succeed Dr. J. H. Fitzwater, of Delaware, as presiding elder of the Delaware district of the Central Ohio Methodist Episcopal conference.

Dinner Stories.

Poor Pat spent almost his last dollar for passage to America. After a week in New York looking for work he was dead broke. So he sat on a bench in the Battery he saw a diver being pulled up on the deck. "Arrah," said Pat, "if I had known you could walk out I would have saved me passage money."

"Ha, ha!" laughed Cuthbert. "How about the worm? What did he get for turning out so early?"

"My son," replied the father, "that worm hadn't been to bed all night; he was on his way home."

TWO VILLAGE STORES IN HARDIN COUNTY LOOTED

Sheriff Making Investigation of Hepburn and Grant Thieveries

Kenton, Jan. 17—Hardin County officials are today endeavoring to solve the burglaries of the Price General store in Hepburn, east of here, and the Lay business house at Grant, north of the city.

Loot secured from both stores will amount to more than $200, it was stated by the proprietors.

Although suspecting local talent, deputies from the sheriff's office have so far been unable to uncover any clues that might lead to the identity of the robbers.

Smashing in a rear window the bandits secured a lot of merchandise from the Price store taking guns, knives and clothing chiefly. It was the second time within as many months that the Price store was burglarized.

Food, clothing and other supplies of nibbles were removed from the Grant store.

MEXICAN CHARGES ARE DENIED BY CATHOLICS

Episcopate Declares Calles Cannot Prove Any of His Accusations

Mexico City, Jan. 17—The Catholic Episcopate has issued a challenge to the Calles government to produce a single document to substantiate the charges that the Episcopate has fostered the widespread rebellion in Mexico throughout the past fortnight.

The episcopate declares that the government lacks proof of its charges and has been unable to make any specific allegations. It declares that it is unfair to charge that the 3,000 Catholic clergymen of Mexico are responsible for these rebellions merely because a few priests have participated in local insurrections here and there.

The government's answer to this challenge appears to be an announcement that "the revolt in Coahuila has been crushed with the capture and execution of the clerical leader." The statement declares that Antonia Aenas, who was captured, had incriminating papers which were signed by Rene Capistran Garza, recently proclaimed "provisional president." Jose Eff, military adviser, was also captured and papers found upon the two were held to be sufficient evidence to warrant their immediate execution.

Progress in suppressing rebellion in Guanajuato, Jalisco and Zacatecas is announced by the government.

THREATS MADE AGAINST PASTOR ARE DETAILED

Former Detective Tells of Hearing Chipps Say He Would "Kill Norris"

Courtroom, Austin, Tex., Jan. 17—Details of alleged threats made against Rev. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the Fort Worth First Baptist Church, by D. E. Chipps, wealthy lumberman, were recounted at Reverend Norris' murder trial in district court here today.

Harry Connor, former Fort Worth detective, went on the stand for the defense and told of hearing Chipps say on the day before the killing that Chipps was going to "kill Norris."

"Chipps said something about Norris," Connor testified. "I asked him if he wasn't afraid of getting into trouble with Norris and he said, 'No, I am going to kill him.'"

Connor was the second witness heard this morning. Charles C. Littleton, an oil well owner, of Fort Worth, testified he knew Chipps, and knew the man's general reputation was bad when he was intoxicated."

Although Seiberling turned over to Dillion, Read and Co., of New York, one-half the shares of the A. C. and Y. Railroad Co. and stock in Seiberling Athletic Field, when he relinquished control of the company, the Goodyear Company declares that the sale of this collateral still leaves Seiberling owing $2,093,720, which it alleges he used for personal promotions while president of the company.

SITUATION NOW LESS TENSE IN LATIN-AMERICA

Movements for Solution of Difficulties Evident in Washington and Nicaragua

Washington, Jan. 17—The extreme paleness that has marked the Mexican-Nicaraguan situation since American warships and marines were concentrated in Caribbean waters appeared lessening today.

Both in Washington and in Latin America strongly backed movements are afoot to find a solution of the difficulties that will restore military peace in Nicaragua, and political peace in Washington.

Considerable pressure is being brought to bear upon President Diaz to retreat from the recalcitrant stand he has assumed since he was assured of American military support. This pressure is being applied by the state department and by neighboring Central American republics, some of which are favorably inclined toward Dr. Juan B. Sacasa claim the presidency.

Peace Efforts Made

Active mediatory efforts are being made by President Jimenez of Costa Rica, and encouraged by the state department. Out of them may yet come new Nicaraguan elections, as proposed by Senator Borah, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, in his speech of opposition to the administration's policy. Or, an agreement may be reached up between the rival Diaz and Sacasa forces for joint administration of the country until the next regular elections two years hence.

The attitude of the state department has undergone a marked change in the last eight hours. One reflection of this was Secretary of State Kellogg's visit to the home of Senator Borah Sunday afternoon for a long conference.

Once the Nicaraguan situation is settled, observers here believe the controversy with Mexico over the land laws will more readily yield to adjustment. The presence in Washington of Charles B. Warren, negotiator of the recognition agreement with Mexico in 1923, has not been without its effect. Warren has persistently championed a conciliatory policy toward Mexico, as opposed to the stronger methods championed by secretary Kellogg and Ambassador Sheffield at Mexico City.

Warren has been at the White House as President Coolidge's guest, and has held numerous conferences with the administration's critics at the capitol.

Personal Conference

Not the least interesting of the suggestions for solution of the Mexican problem has been that President Coolidge should go to the border and there meet President Calles in personal conference in an effort to agree upon a general adjustment of Mexican-American affairs.

The suggestion was made to President Coolidge at the White House last week, it was learned today, by responsible members of the senate who were keenly concerned over the apparent drift of the two governments toward an open break.

Senator Robinson, Democrat, of Arkansas, minority leader of the senate, is said to have favored such a move. He declined to discuss it today, but from other sources it was learned that he endorsed it to Mr. Coolidge. What reply, if any, Mr. Coolidge made is not of record. He is said not to have committed himself either for or against it.

Those back of the idea believe it would have a wholesome effect on public opinion, now highly inflamed both in the United States and Mexico, for the presidents of the two countries to take a critical situation out of the hands of quarreling ministers of foreign affairs and by personal conference put it upon the high plane of avoidance of war would afford a spectacular example of the peaceful desires of both countries that would not be without its effect on world opinion, it is held.

Meanwhile, debate in criticism and support of the administration's Latin-American policy, threatened today to continue indefinitely in congress. A number of speeches were scheduled today.

Marysville Legionnaires Are Hopeful of Success In Drive For Purchase Fund

Union Post No. 79 Would Convert Beautiful Wooded Tract into Park as Memorial to Comrades Who Gave Life in World War

Marysville, Jan. 17—A drive to raise a fund for the purchase of the Clement Woods, west of Marysville to establish a public park as a memorial to soldiers of Union County, who gave their lives in the World War was put under way today by members of Union Post, No. 79, of the American Legion. From reports of the first day's solicitation local organizations and business men have contributed liberally toward the fund and the success of the undertaking seems certain.

The action to establish a memorial park in honor of Union County's World War dead was taken at a recent meeting of the local Legion Post. The action was had originally intended to establish a monument for this purpose but later have come to a decision that the founding of a park would be more fitting as a memorial.

Beautiful Tract

The Clement Woods, which is located on a boulevard west of the city, is a beautiful wooded tract which has been under discussion for purchase by different organizations in the city. The tract has changed hands several times during the past several years.

The legion has obtained a ten day option on an offer of $8,000.

The drive to raise the amount is in charge of legion members composed of: Lee S. Scherer, chairman; Willard Hamilton, Dr. F. C. Calloway, George P. Schlenker and Louis P. Rausch.

The plan has the endorsement of the churches of Marysville and the Marysville Kiwanis Club has offered to donate a fund for playground equipment. Four members immediately stated they would give $100 each toward the proposition. The Marysville Lions Club have also pledged support financially. Former members of the Marysville Home Guards will also give a substantial amount now in their treasury. The American Legion Auxiliary has donated $300 to the various organizations and various other clubs and societies approached today were heartily in favor of the project and have promised support. Marysville business men have also taken a whole hearted interest in the matter, promise and will support the veterans in this praiseworthy undertaking.

PREACHES HERE

Rev. George R. Trickett, Cleveland, Speaks at Episcopal Church

Rev. George R. Trickett of Cleveland, who preached at St. Paul's Episcopal Church recently, returned to Marion yesterday and conducted Sunday services at the church, the celebration of holy communion at 7:30 o'clock; Church school at 9 and a second celebration of communion and sermon services at 10:30 o'clock.

His sermon dealt with the season of Epiphany. "The secret of epiphany," Rev. Trickett said, "lies in doing what is required of us. Understanding comes through experience and we can not understand the life of the church and perform our duties there until we have entered the circle of the church; we can not understand religion until we get within the circle of its experience and to understand God we must look Him in the eye through prayer."

In conclusion emphasis, Rev. Trickett said, "Faith now has done its part in drawing aside the curtain which hides the Infinite realm of the world in which we live, and we now find ourselves at the dawn of discovery of things which are not but exist eternal."

A beautiful solo, Aria, "The People that Walked in Darkness" (from the Messiah) by Handel preceded by the usual recitative, "Behold! Darkness Shall Cover the Earth" was sung by Lowell C. Card with organ accompaniment played by Miss Green Cooper.

Announcement was made of next Sunday's services which will be held at the regular hours in charge of Archdeacon Gerald Patterson of Cleveland.

Rheumatism the enemy of advancing years

HAD SUFFERED FOR YEARS WITH RHEUMATISM
Tried many remedies—Simple home treatment brought relief
A sufferer from acute rheumatism for many years, a Winchester, N. H., man at last found that he could always get rid of the pain, and relieve the swelling and stiffness by a simple home treatment.
"After trying various remedies," he writes, "Sloan's Liniment was recommended to me, and it stopped the pain."
What is the reason for these remarkable results?
Simply that Sloan's doesn't just deaden the nerves. It stirs up your own forces to get rid of the conditions that are causing the pain.
Apply lightly without rubbing, and at once you'll feel the comforting warmth as fresh, healing blood begins circulating through the affected spot. The stiff, swollen tissues relax, the inflammation goes down, the pain stops, and soon you feel normal again. Get a bottle today and have it on hand. All druggists—35 cents.

Old-Fashioned Revival Is Opened At Forest Lawn

An outstanding feature of the old-fashioned revival service held last night at Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church as the first service of an evangelistic program, was the large number of young people who, together with many adults, professed their faith and were converted following the sermon. There was an exceptionally large attendance.

"The Perils of Freedom" was the subject of the sermon preached by Rev. Alfred W. Swan, pastor of the church, in which he said, "When the prodigal son went on his long journey he found not freedom, but he also discovered that freedom to be filled with perils. When he returned to his father's house it was not to forfeit freedom, but to realize even the freedom he had lost."

An especially arranged selection "I Was a Wandering Sheep," was sung by the choir.

Rev. Curtis Shields of Lenton, O., will conduct the revival service at the church tonight, preaching on the subject, "Lowest Thou Me?" Captain William Kilbeth of the local Salvation Army post will play several trumpet solos. The revival will continue for two weeks with a service at 7:30 o'clock each night, with the exception of Saturday.

Living

HOW FAIR ARE WE?

Loving

IT rains and it snows on the just and it blows, but above the tumult of the clouds and wind shine the stars unchanged in their calm radiance.

Ever since the world was young fixed principles have remained immovable amid Rabelaisian customs of shifting years. And in every age and clime servants rack according to the voices have told the truth unto the people.

In the words of Marcus Aurelius Antoninus long ago Emperor of Rome:

"Whatever is in any way beautiful has its source of beauty in itself."

And although 'tis uncertain to whom credit is due, the following bit of poetry we remember is expressive of the self same wisdom:

"Beauty is but skin deep"
What is beauty, really?
Opinions differ.

Some consider it a pleasing combination of form and features, an exquisite picture to delight the senses.

This is beauty in its lesser degree. Such beauty receives much homage while it tarries, but how often it is transient, lickly turning deserter when it is needed most.

Others, deeper thinkers than the first, count beauty a quality of spirit, a reflection from that spark of life divine within us which man calls the soul.

This latter is beauty in its truest, truest sense.

When Nature, in generous mood, allots to some favorite full quota of physical charm, the blessed one, accustomed to her good fortune, often takes it as a matter of course, and, naturally enough, perhaps, trusts to it as compensation for much that is not lovely.

But—

Ugly thoughts cannot be so hidden. They register in the facial expression.

Envy, malice, moral these ugly of thought distort the cupid's bow of the mouth into lines that are hard, disagreeable.

Curiosity and stupidity. For some not quite explicable reason these give to the rounded chin a certain tilt that foretells its coming sharpness.

Self interest is a preventative to a friendly facing of the world.

When gloom is at home in the soul dreariness will peep out of its windows.

Looking lovelines within, how truly fair are we!

Girls! Tell This To Your Skinny Friend
Tell him that the quick easy way to put pounds of solid flesh on his bones is to take McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets.
Tell him it's the modern way to take nasty tonics, stomach upsetting cod liver oil. That these tablets are rich in vitamines and besides helping him to fill out his flat chest and sunken cheeks and neck that the vitalizing vitamines in McCoy's will make him stronger and vigorous and give him more ambition.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.—Adv.

HOW TO RESTORE LOST APPETITE
And Build Firm, Solid Flesh, And Renew Vitality
Thousands of men and women lack appetite and are "finicky" about what they eat and so find their energy and vigor slipping away. Thousands of other men and women eat heartily—yes, to the point of "stuffing" yet they remain thin and can't seem to get any "pep."
Such conditions are due to faulty nutritive processes. Lack of stimulation to the mouth and stomach glands is the real cause. We all need better digestion of our food. Scientists are telling us about this as newspaper reading matter today in the newspapers and "pep" journals.
If your appetite is poor or if you eat a lot and you still remain thin and lacking in vitality, try this: a good glass and three times a day with your meal. You will be satisfied with the improvement and results will come quickly.
A remarkable stimulant-tonic has been devised for just such conditions as these. It is delightfully palatable and is prepared by an old Virginia concern in business for nearly a century. Druggists and physicians have come to know this stimulant as "Old Master Tonic." Get a bottle today from your druggist, take a small wineglass full before your next meal—see how much better you eat—feel the glow of stimulated functions throughout the body. A few days' treatment will bring a welcome change in run-down conditions and overcome lack of energy.—Adv.

Mary Is Docile

... she says when you told her you were going to keep her in bed?" Lillian asked, and I suppressed with difficulty a look of surprise, for it is unlike her to ask questions concerning other people's moods.

"She was surprisingly docile," I returned, "and said that she was very glad of the chance to stay in bed and rest."

Lillian nodded, and there was no further mention of Mary during the rest of the meal. When it was finished and Dicky had gone to his office, she drew me into my bedroom.

"May I come back here tonight and sleep here?" she asked.

"Do you need to ask?" I countered reproachfully.

"No, I don't," she flashed back, "but I'm always 'a perfect lady, drunk or sober'—you know that, so I like to go through the motions. Seriously, though, old dear, I may be late, and I hate to disturb you."

Lillian Returns

"That will be easy," I returned. "I'll give you a latchkey. I have an extra one. But you don't need to worry about disturbing me. I shall be working late tonight to make up for last evening's frivolity. But the latchkey will be convenient, for Mrs. Peters is often conveniently deaf after 10 o'clock."

"I don't blame her," Lillian commented, and a few minutes later took her departure, while I, after another visit to Mary, satisfying myself that all she needed was rest, settled myself to my work.

The day passed uneventfully. I permitted Mary to get up in the afternoon, and she curled up on the living-room couch and read while I worked, and later had her dinner with us. At her bedtime, I tucked her up, and later peeped into her room to assure myself that she was asleep, with her light out. Then I went back to my work and became so absorbed in it that I forgot all about Lillian's promised return until she hurried into the living-room a few minutes after midnight, with the breathless demand:

"Has anyone telephoned me here, yet?"

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

We rushed along the jetty, making a last desperate effort as we heard a furious shouting in our rear. Side by side we reached the end. The gangway of the steamboat was being drawn aboard, and her paddles were beginning to churn the waters of the lake. Officials barred the way, motioning us to stop.

"Jump", shouted Claypole without hesitation, and I leaped desperately.

Even at that moment I could not help noting the horrified expression of the magnificent personage (I will not call him a sailor) who was stowing the gangway. We fell together at his feet.

A hand was laid on my knee.

and the first thing I saw on rising was two yards of elaborate uniform, surmounted by a face entirely possessed by astonishment and reprobation.

I was first up, and while Claypole still grovelled, muttering dark things on the deck, I looked around and saw Signor Marcus focusing his one eye on the steamer, his fat body quivering with rage as he stood on the end of the petty.

Then the jetty was blotted out by a small crowd of officials who appeared as if by magic and demanded explanations.

"Shades of William Tell," said Claypole, who had just scrambled to his feet, "Reckon we've imposed somewhat the operations of this naval Power."

We explained that we had been rowing on the lake, and had been upset and were anxious to return to Geneva without loss of time in order to obtain dry clothes.

I think they assumed that we were slightly drunk, for they refused to receive us, and after purchasing two first-class tickets we entered the saloon which fortunately proved to be almost empty. A waiter, genially unobtrusive, supplied us with hot grog, but insisted on covering the plush seats with a dust-sheet before he would allow us to sit down.

Sinking back on the seat opposite Claypole, I had time to realize that I was desperately tired. I was wet to the skin, and I ached all over. My appearance was certainly deplorable. The mirror behind Claypole's head showed me a countenance white and disordered.

I opened my eyes and saw Claypole's eager face fixed on my face. When I remembered all he had gone through in the last twenty-four hours my own misfortunes appeared a feeble enough in comparison, yet he was obviously in no way prepared to give way. The little man was clean grit, all through, and, as I looked at him, something of his confidence gradually began to suppress the forebodings to which I had yielded.

"Meanwhile," he continued, "it's time I handed you over some posies for that most convenient arrival of yours in Count Emilov's dogcart. Cyrus P. Claypole would be lying full fifty fathoms deep' at this moment if you hadn't contrived to keep that pressing appointment."

"Claypole," I said, "no more about that, if you please. I've come into this by chance, but henceforth you can count on me to help you all I know. I don't say I should have chosen this sort of holiday with my eyes open; but now I'm in this business, I mean to see it through."

"That's the spirit," said Claypole. "Beware of entrance to a quarrel, as Shakespeare says, but when you do jump in just to give the other fellow hell."

He thereupon beckoned to the waiter, and ordered two more grogs, at the same time inquiring when the boat was due to arrive at Geneva. We were informed that it would touch at several points on the lake before finally entering harbor, but that it would arrive in another twenty minutes.

"They'll be waiting for us," I said, "on the landing stage. What are we to do?"

"We can fix that all right," returned Claypole cheerfully. "The respectable harbor of Geneva isn't at all the same proposition as a medieval oubliette. Helvetia, complete with trident, will be watching over these homeless waifs, and those guys will have to beat it when I get talking to the Genevese police."

"Meantime," he continued, "just tell me how they got hold of you."

I spent the rest of the journey telling him the complete story of my adventures since arriving at Geneva.

Recipes for New and Novel Dishes; Household Ideas and Suggestions

The English custom of serving afternoon tea is gaining adherents all the time. Dainty sandwiches, or hot breads may be served at this time when a few invited friends are asked in for a social chat and a refreshing cup of tea. At each time an appropriate "tea" would be:

Sandwiches or Hot Bread with Butter
Olives
Marmalade or Jam
Cakes Salted Nuts
Tea

TODAY'S RECIPES

Sandwiches—They should be very small and dainty with the crust cut off. Finely chopped meat mixed with salad dressing or otherwise highly seasoned, nut and raisin mixture or other dried fruit chopped and mixed with salad dressing. Caviare sandwiches, cheese, any tasty and not too heavy sandwich may be served with afternoon tea, and plain bread and butter sandwiches or possibly with the addition of lettuce or watercress, are equally appropriate. If you want a hearty sandwich use the chicken cream ones following. Three-fourths cup chopped cold boiled chicken, one-fourth cup of chopped celery, one cream, one cup milk, three tablespoons flour, two tablespoons butter, white of two eggs, one half teaspoon salt, pepper to season, lemon juice. The celery and onion should be cooked and forced through a strainer. Mix chicken, celery and onion, flour, milk, butter together, bring to the boiling point, let simmer three minutes, then add whites of eggs beaten stiff, and seasonings. Turn into a mold and let stand in a cold place, twelve hours. Remove from mold, cut in slices and put between thin slices of buttered bread. Remove crusts and cut in any desired shape.

Mosaic Sandwiches—These are very simple sandwiches, but they look pretty and taste delicious. Cut three slices of white and graham bread one-half inch in thickness. Spread a slice of white bread with creamed butter and put a slice of graham bread on it. Spread this with butter and place on it a slice of white bread. Repeat this process, beginning with a slice of graham. Put both piles in a cool place under a light weight. When butter has become firm, trim each pile evenly and cut in three one-half inch slices. Spread these with butter and put together in such a way that a white block will alternate with a graham one. Place again in a cool place under a weight and when butter has become perfectly hard cut in thin slices for serving.

Your friends may love you fondly and still think your advice is of no account.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for resistant coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—Adv.

Old Folks Need a Mild Laxative —Not a "Physic"

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

To Play Eighth Industrial League Round Tonight

Patsy's Patter

Gossip and Guesses in the World of Sport

By Pat Murphy

THE truth about the charges of "Dutch" Leonard that Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker were parties to thrown games is liable to come out at last. The story published in some papers last week to the effect that neither of these players would ever be allowed to play in the American league again has stirred Judge Landis to challenge Ban Johnson and American league moguls to lay their cards on the table. The judge has invited the owners of the American league clubs to meet at his office in Chicago a week from today, "to ascertain what basis, if any, there is" for the publication of the story mentioned above.

The published statement was credited to an unnamed official of the American League. This unnamed official is generally supposed to be President Johnson. There is no love between the president of the American league and the high commissioner of baseball, despite the supposed burying of the hatchet last fall at the big leagues meeting.

Possibly this comity will result in the two players who have long been the idols of the fans getting a hearing and a square deal. They—and the baseball public—are entitled to an open hearing on the charges. Their case, even though they have about reached the end of their playing days, is of as much, if not more importance than were the cases of the score or more players who were recently exonerated by the judge after charges by "Swede" Risberg.

• • •

THE case of Speaker and Cobb has caused many unusual situations in baseball lore this winter. One of the latest is the use of the advertising columns of a great newspaper for the expression of confidence in the two players who withdrew from the game after the last season closed.

Paul Block, publisher of the Newark, N. J., Star-Eagle, used his advertising columns Saturday for this unusual role. In his ad he expressed the opinion that "No men who have done for baseball what these men have done, can ever in justice, be driven from the game, condemned and ruined, for any careless judgment or thoughtless indiscretion."

"Nobody who knows them believes they are dishonest men or that they ever 'threw' any ball games," reads the advertisement, in referring to the charges of "Dutch" Leonard that the two great players conspired to throw a contest in 1919.

The ad further expresses confidence if baseball as a "clean and splendid sport" and in Cobb and Speaker as "good men who served it long and well."

WITTENBERG College co-eds have made a discovery. A coach doesn't care what kind of hair his basketball men have, but the co-eds at the Springfield Lutheran school have been startled by the fact that no decided brunet has made the team at Wittenberg this year.

Captain Gerald Armstrong is a strawberry blond and was known as "Red" away back in his high school days at Greenfield. Little Joe Keyser, playing forward, and Homer Knotts, and Ralph Bauer at guards, are blonds of a sort. Homer McFadden is sort of medium dark, while Carl Baden, substitute center, is quite light-haired.

But Coach E. R. Godfrey scales because his light-haired and light footed team humbled Georgia Tech and Cornell, and now is away for a high place in the Buckeye Athletic Association.

Believing that the fault with football today is not in the game itself but in the administration of it, Marion A. Cheek, who was captain of the Harvard gridiron team two years ago, suggests that the problem might best be solved by taking the sport out of the hands of the graduates and placing it under control of the students who are to participate in it. The suggestion has met with favorable comment at a number of the Eastern colleges.

A NATIONAL appeal to raise 3,000 pounds (about $15,000), to cover the expenses of a team of ten British golf professionals to defend the Ryder Cup in the United States, has been announced in London. At the same time it was made known that Britishers would compete also in the American open golf championships.

The professional golf trophy, known as the Ryder Cup, was played for last year for the first time, being won by a British team. This year's Ryder Cup series has been set for June 10 and 11, but the course has not been definitely selected. Competition for the trophy is restricted to British and American professional teams.

AT the annual meeting of the board of stewards of the intercollegiate rowing association at Columbia University Club last week, the rowing authorities tentatively named Wednesday, June 29 as the date of the Poughkeepsie regatta. Government approval in order to stop traffic on the Hudson River is needed before the date can be definitely set, but this is merely a matter of form.

As in the last two years, the varsity race will be over a four-mile course. Invitations as usual were extended to all non-members of the intercollegiate rowing association likely to compete. The members of the association—Columbia, Penn., Syracuse and Cornell—of course will be represented and the entries of Navy and Washington practically are assured. Wisconsin is also likely to go East again, but the chances that California will return are somewhat remote unless the Golden Bears surprise with a victory over Washington in the annual Pacific Coast championship struggle with the Huskies.

SEASON IS HALF GONE; C., D. & M. LEADS LEAGUE

Hubers To Meet League Leaders in Second Tussle Tonight

Marion Industrial League basketball teams will participate in the eighth round of contests tonight in the Star Auditorium. Only seven more rounds remain and the ambition of six teams in the league at present is to knock off the leaders the C., D. & M. quintet.

Hubers will have their second chance at the strongest team in the league tonight and the eyes of many fans are fixed on that contest. According to previous scores, the Huber outfit has not the slightest chance in the struggle tonight, but there have been upsets.

Hubers were defeated in the first league game of the season by the C., D. & M., taking the short end of a 45 to 23 score. Hubers, however, had only been organized a few weeks prior to the contest. What they will do tonight will not be known until they start out on the floor for the second tilt of the night.

The Fairfield Engineers will meet the Railway Service crew in the first game tonight. A few weeks ago the Engineers were defeated by a margin of only two points by the Service team, considered one of the strongest in the league. The Engineers have won only two games so far this season but have been playing heads-up basketball. The Service quintet has suffered two defeats and has four victories to its credit.

Osgoods are favored to crush the Marion Business College cagers tonight in the third game. They defeated the Collegians 15 to 3 in the first league tilt of the season but may find it rather difficult to turn a trick of that nature again. The Collegians have improved greatly and may turn the tables on the confident winning Osgood outfit.

The Commercial Steel Co. basketeers are idle tonight. They have won four games and lost only two so far this season, being tied for second place with the Railway Service men. The Commercials defeated the Service crew earlier in the season.

Interest in the Industrial League games continues to grow and with half the season gone and the league race getting tighter, larger crowds than ever are expected tonight.

The first game will be called at 7:15 o'clock.

"Doc" King of Ohio Wesleyan, will take care of the officiating.

Landis and Johnson May Clash at Special League Meeting Called By Judge

Ban Johnson's Turn Now; Czar Landis Calls Meeting To Find Out Whether American Leaguers Held Out on Him When They Turned Over Cobb-Speaker Case

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Jan. 17—Scandal and backstairs whispering, for which the 1926 season will go down in the books as the most notorious in history, will cease abruptly with the bobbing of Judge Landis' special American League meeting in Chicago on Jan. 24. The writer learned today that Landis, thoroughly fed up with undercover efforts to embarrass his regime, will force a cessation of the guerilla warfare now in progress even if he has to go so far as to drive Ban Johnson out of baseball.

He can go further than that, if the spirit moves him, for his contract gives him arbitrary power in the matter of dismissing any official whose acts or utterance, attributed to "a well-known official" that neither Cobb nor Speaker ever again will be permitted to play in the American League. That statement, if proved to be correct, will completely nullify the effect Landis hoped to create by failing to go on record as to the guilt or innocence of the two stars, in fact, tacitly declares the American League's belief in their guilt.

Landis suspects that Johnson is the author of the statement just as he is morally certain that his architect packaged the appearances of Swede Risberg and Chick Gandil at the last scandal hearing. He even believes that Johnson inspired these two worthies to reopen the question of whether the Detroit-Chicago fund of 1917 was a bribe or a gift, knowing that this would place Landis in a tough spot.

That, at least, was the general impression around the hearing, particularly since some of Johnson's spokesmen were very active in behalf of Risberg and Gandil at the time.

Now, however, it will be Johnson's turn on the griddle. Landis has called his special meeting with but one idea in mind: to find out whether the American League held out on him when it turned over the Cobb-Speaker case to him for a decision or whether Johnson merely is popping off. Either way, Johnson is due to be shushed.

If it was a pop-off, then Landis will be in a position to demand Johnson's scalp on the ground that it endangered not only the judge's position but that of baseball as well.

It would not be surprising on the whole, if Landis threatened to retire from office, just as he did several years ago when Johnson openly attacked him.

Baseball felt it couldn't afford to let the judge get away at that time. Can it afford it any more at this time?

When you have answered that one, you will know just what a trying afternoon if Ban Johnson will put in next Monday.

JOHNSON CHARGES LANDIS IS GUILTY

Chicago, Jan. 17—Ban B. Johnson, president of the American League, broke a long silence today to say that he not only would attend the meeting of league officials set by Commissioner Landis for Jan. 24, but that he would prove to the public that Commissioner K. M. Landis, and not the American League, tarred Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker.

Johnson practically admitted he was the author of the published statement which quoted a "high American League official" as saying that "Cobb nor Speaker will ever again manage or play on an American League team."

Although Johnson reiterates first Cobb and Speaker will never return to the American League, almost in the same breath he pays Cobb one of the highest tributes ever paid a ball player. Johnson said:

"I don't believe Cobb ever played a dishonest game in his life. If that's the exoneration he seeks I gladly give it to him.

But it is from Landis, Cobb should demand an explanation. It was Landis who broadcast the story of his misdeeds."

Johnson said he would take the stand at the hearing next Monday and his testimony would prove that the American League acted to protect Cobb and Speaker, and that the Commissioner himself is to blame for the cloud that hangs over their names.

Basketball Fans Prepare For Treat As Shovelers Bring Buffalo Team Here

Buffalo Lincolns, Rated Among Greatest League Teams in Country, Will Clash with Steam Shovels Tuesday Night; New Bleachers Will Accommodate Crowds

Marion basketball fans Tuesday night will have the opportunity of seeing a cage team that ranks in popularity with the New York Lyceum and Cleveland Recreations, when the Buffalo Lincolns, world renown quintet, will play the Marion Steam Shovels on the shovel gym, W. Center st.

The Lincolns are rated as one of the best traveling clubs in the country and have been known to always draw the fans all that can be expected from an organization. Their play at top speed from start to finish, and often beat their opponents by confining fast play. They have won many games in the last few months.

The Buffalo team is beginning another tour through this section of the country this week. They will play clubs in Dover, Toronto, Flint, Toledo, Marion, Cleveland, and other cities in Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota on the tourney.

The Lincoln team is composed of a group of stars, well-known in the sport world. Many of the men have played together for a number of years and are famous for their excellent team work.

The Steam Shovels have also developed into a real basketball outfit, their last victory being staged last week over the Akron Firestones. The Firestones, after piloting all season without a defeat suffered their first downfall on the shovel gym court when the Steam Shovels stepped high and wide and wiped up the floor with the Akron players. The final score was 39 to 22.

Last week the locals had with them Mel Shaw at center and Bob Sipes at guard. It is probable that Harry Schwab will again be at his old post in the center ring this week after an absence last week because of the death of his brother. Shea will probably suit be with the locals although the lineup is not yet certain.

Buddy Compton, who starred at guard last Monday when he was assigned the tough job of taking care of Spaulding, former Purdue star, will again be in that position. Bacon will play either guard or forward. Bob Wilson and Dewey Bohyer will see action during the evening.

A preliminary event will begin at 7 o'clock with the big game starting at 8:15 o'clock. Bleachers have been erected along the sidelines and will accommodate an unusual number of spectators. Reserved seats are on sale at Bartlett's Drug Store.

FINDLAY WINS FIRST LEAGUE GAME IN YEARS

Bowling Green, Jan. 17—But two games were played in the Northwest Ohio conference last week, but both were close battles, the Bluffton 21 to 20, only after three overtimes periods.

The greatest upset of the conference was Findlay's 21 to 20 victory over Toledo U., a team which was doped as the chief title contender against Bowling Green college, 1926 champions. It was Findlay's first conference victory for years.

TOMMY ARMOUR WINS

Los Angeles, Jan. 17—Tommy Armour, Washington, D. C., and Al Watrous, Grand Rapids, Mich., to-day were the winners of the $2,500 Los Angeles Open Golf Team Tournament. They defeated Hutt Martin and Vic D'Alberto, Los Angeles professionals here yesterday.

ONLY UNBEATEN BIG TEN TEAMS BATTLE TONIGHT

Michigan Plays Illinois and Indiana Meets Northwestern

Chicago, Jan. 17—Interest in the Big Ten basketball race centers tonight on two games involving the only unbeaten teams of the conference. They are Michigan and Indiana. Michigan plays Illinois at Ann Arbor and Indiana meets Northwestern at Evanston.

Michigan and Indiana are in a tie for first place, each having won two games and lost none. Illinois, Wisconsin and Purdue are deadlocked for second honors, each with two victories and one defeat.

The Illini dropped from the list of unbeaten teams Saturday night in a heartbreaker against Ohio State. The Buckeyes won by the margin of one point 29 to 28.

That Indiana will keep her slate clean by winning over the three conference Purple tonight, is a foregone conclusion. But the session at Ann Arbor portends to be one of the fiercest struggles of the entire season.

A victory for the Illini over the Wolverines would put them in second place and within "tackling" distance of Indiana.

The third conference game scheduled for tonight is that between Wisconsin and Chicago, in the latter's bailiwick. The Badgers, who defeated Northwestern Saturday night, 28 to 18, are favored to win over the Maroons.

With the season one-fourth gone, Minnesota and Northwestern are practically out of the running. Neither team has won a game. The Gophers lost their fourth straight Saturday night when Purdue trounced them 32 to 28.

HUNT IS THIRD

Ohio State Forward Among Leading Big Ten Scorers

Chicago, Jan. 17—Cummins of Purdue, today heads the list of basket tossers in the Big Ten Conference. The sophomore forward is far ahead, both in shots from the floor and from the foul line.

The ten highest scorers are: Cummins, Purdue, 46; Otterness, Minnesota, 30; Hunt, Ohio, 28; Daugherty, Illinois, 26; Fisher, Northwestern, 25; Andrews, Wisconsin, 25; Lindsay, Illinois, 23; Twogood, Iowa, 20; McMillen, Ohio, 19, and Wilcox, Iowa, 18.

I have often smoked Lucky Strike cigarettes and, frankly, I like them. Their flavor is good and they don't irritate the throat or vocal cords.

J. Wadsworth Jr.

Wadsworth's Powerful, Inspiring Voice
—clear, expressive, it has the quality which creates confidence

NEW YORK'S Senior Senator, noted for a speaking voice of rare impressiveness, safeguards his throat constantly, so as to be ever ready for a debate or a speech. His favorite cigarettes are Lucky Strikes, both for greater pleasure and throat protection.

Lucky Strikes have become the favorites of men whose priceless voices thrill their audiences, as they have with the millions because, first, they afford greater enjoyment and second, they are certain not to irritate even the most sensitive throat.

But in addition, a costly extra process—toasting for 45 minutes—develops the hidden flavors of the choicest tobaccos and at the same time removes all "bite" and harshness.

Smoke Lucky Strikes. They give added pleasure—you'll like them.

When me and Jubilee woke up this morning it was snowing, and Jubilee must have thought it was summer, because he looked in my face so disgusted when I went to let him down out of the window that I had to laugh. It is only four months after this 'til vacation, but I don't care so very much, because it will take at least that long before the world will get thawed out enough for a fella to go swimming and fishing, and for the snakes to come out of their holes and mudturkles to come out of the mud, and then a fella can have fun. There is not anything to chase a girl with in the winter but snowballs.

LOANS up to $500

We started The City Loan with the firm conviction that "Most people are honest." And our fourteen years of experience with people of moderate financial circumstances—people who might be tempted—have strengthened our conviction. We lose less money by bad accounts in a year than almost any other business in town.

Ninety-nine out of every hundred people who come to us for money are honest folks, worthy of all the consideration and attention we can offer, and all the assistance we can pack into a roll of bright, new, crackling bank notes, advanced on the sort of security everyone has and the promise to repay in small, regular amounts out of income.

If has paid us to be considerate of the fellow in need of money. It will pay you, when in need of money, to consider The City Loan.

BUYING OF OIL STOCKS FEATURES MARKET TODAY

Volume of Motor, Industrial and Speciality Issues Causes Downward Price Trend

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad, irregular; industrial, irregular; domestic bonds, steady; foreign bonds, firm; call money, 4½ percent; grain, steady; copper, steady; oil, irregular; cotton, irregular; rubber, steady; sugar, firm; pig iron, firm.

New York, Jan. 17—Speculative buying of the oil stocks and a few of the "merger rails" furnished the principal source of strength in an otherwise dull and featureless market today. The motor stocks, the industrials and most of the specialties were thrown on the market in sufficient volume to cause a distinctly downward movement in prices.

In view of the $81,000,000 increase in the reserves of the clearing house banks last week, and the signs of easier money conditions in all the important foreign financial markets, the 4 1-2 per cent call loan renewal rate was a disappointment to the bullish forces in Wall street. There was no change in the trend of bond prices, however. All of the outstanding U. S. Government Treasury Bonds sold at the highest prices on record, while European government issues added new fractional gains to those already reported.

This was evidence aplenty of the large volume of surplus funds awaiting employment in securities or otherwise. Some of the December production reports were not up to expectation, General Motors, for example, reporting only 52,729 cars sold at retail, against 101,729 for November and 88,129 in December of 1925. A careful review of the freight transportation situation by 500 shippers and railroad officials showed that preparations were being made for about the same volume of business as in the last quarter of 1926.

JURY INVESTIGATING CHARGES OF ATTACKS

Painesville, Jan. 7—The Lake County Grand Jury today began investigation of a series of attacks on young school girls and boys here which, according to Seth Paulin, prosecutor, may reveal sensational charges against several local men.

Three men are under arrest in connection with the charges which are said to include incidents occurring here for the last six months.

Both boys and girls, some of them as young as nine years, were victims of the practices, according to Paulin.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

The week started with an upward swing in the price of eggs on some grades. Wholesale prices went up two cents a dozen Saturday and the price change was reflected in the retail quotations on the higher grades. An upward trend all along the line is looked for, some dealers say. Poultry prices have not taken an advance on the retail market, although the wholesale price was boosted several cents last week.

Strawberries found a ready sale here Saturday, although the price is still $5.25 a box. The supply was strong Saturday, as more housewives bought. The supply on hand was nearly all taken up and was nearly all sold in Saturday buying, and few berries were carried over by the peddlers.

Other prices in staple and fancy articles remained the same today.

It's Foolish To Hoard Your Money

Why? Well, there are many good reasons why you should not carry your savings about with you, or tuck them away in some private place of fancied security.

You take big chances with money so disposed of. It may be stolen, burned, lost or foolishly spent. You may be tempted by some reckless "gamble" or speculative "investment" which would not appeal to you if your savings were safe in the bank.

And, above all, hoarded money earns nothing for you. We not only give you absolute safety and protection, without charge, but we pay you 4% (compounded semi-annually) for the privilege of serving your interests.

Let us explain fully other advantages of a saving account. Call or write for one of our free books and we will help you get this right start.

Scopes Reveals He Didn't Teach Lesson On Evolution

SKIPPED CLASS ON SPECIFIC DAY, HE SAYS

Case Had to Go to Higher Court for Killing Law

By WILLIAM E. HUTCHISON
(Copyrighted, 1927, By I. N. S.)

Washington, Jan. 17—One of the greatest legal hoaxes in the history of American jurisprudence has come to an end with the decision of the Tennessee Supreme Court refusing John Thomas Scopes a new trial in the world famous anti-evolution case.

The story of the case may be told today because the court while holding the anti-evolution law constitutional, recommended that the case against Scopes be nolle-prossed because he left the state. The authorities have agreed.

The truth of that famous case is that Scopes was convicted of a misdemeanor which he never committed. The writer has the word of Scopes himself to this effect.

The youthful teacher who became the center of a tremendous conflict between fundamentalism and science, never violated Tennessee's anti-evolution law. He didn't teach the children of Dayton, Tenn., any "theories that deny the story of the divine creation of man as taught in the Bible." He said so himself. Yet he was indicted and convicted by a jury of farmers while the whole world watched his case.

Didn't Teach Lesson

The bald, bare truth is that Scopes missed the lesson which might have violated the law. His indictment charged he taught a course in anti-evolutionary theory on April 24, 1925. In truth, he didn't teach that day. Two pupils testified at his trial that he taught from Page 155 in Hunter's "Civic Biology" on that day but Scopes said he had "skipped" the lesson.

It was on a warm June afternoon in 1925, a few hours after his conviction, that Scopes told the writer the "inside story" of his trial. The teacher was plainly worried.

"There's something I must tell you," said Scopes. "It's worried me all during the trial. You know I'm not guilty of violating that law."

"A jury said you were," he was told.

"Yes, but I never taught that evolution lesson," Scopes retorted. I skipped it. I was doing something else the day I should have taught it and I missed the whole lesson about Darwin and never did teach it. Those kids they put on the stand couldn't remember what I taught them three months ago. They were just coached by the lawyers. And that April 24 date was just a guess.

"Honest, I've been scared all during the trial that the kids might remember I missed the lesson. I was afraid they'd get on the stand and say I hadn't taught it and then the whole trial would go kloosie. If that happened, they'd run me out of town on a rail."

"Skirts Are Clear."

"Well, you're safe now," the writer observed.

"Yes, I'm convicted of a crime I never committed," said Scopes. "But my skirts are clear. You know I pleaded 'not guilty.'"

"That will make a great story," he was told.

"My God, no," Scopes exhorted. "Not a word of it until the supreme court passes on my appeal. My lawyer would kill me if it got out now."

In corroboration of his "confession", Scopes pointed out how his attorneys—Clarence Darrow, Dudley Field Malone and Arthur Garfield Hays—had kept him off the witness stand and finally entered an agreement in open court for his conviction. He referred also to the plea of Darrow to the jury for a conviction.

"We are more interested," Darrow had said to the jury, "in overthrowing the law and we can't do that unless we get to a higher court, and to get to a higher court, we must have the defendant found guilty. I don't see how you can bring in a verdict of not guilty."

Issue Back Again

The Tennessee Supreme Court may have had an inkling of this story, too, it appeared today, as its decision was the only one by which it could uphold the evolution law and yet get rid of the Scopes case. Counsel for Scopes had guarded every other avenue to a technical reversal of Scopes' conviction by permitting the elimination of their bill of exceptions, containing all the alleged trial errors.

"After all," as Scopes explained it that July afternoon, "the cause at stake is one of religious liberty and educational freedom it doesn't matter how we get this issue into courts just so we had some conveyance to carry it before the American people."

Now, the Tennessee court had dismantled that "conveyance" so the issue is back once more in the rolling, verdant hills of Tennessee.
